Design Concept & Process:

This is a companion piece to Branches #2, which is the same design, but the colors are the compliments/opposites on the color wheel, and the size is much smaller. In order to have this design printed by Spoonflower, it had to be divided into three sections, which took up just over six yards. Since I had to pay for the whole seventh yard anyway, I filled it with the smaller version of the design and had both printed at the same time.
